Saints Peter and Paul.

Today's feast honours the principal foundational figures of the early Church.

Peter, the first Pope, represents unity and leadership whilst Paul, the great missionary, symbolises evangelisation and doctrine.

Both were martyred in Rome and buried beneath the basilicas bearing their names.

The Spiritan Fathers.

Fr. Philip Marsh will say all weekend Masses.

He belongs to the Spiritan Fathers (Holy Ghost Fathers)

He remembers St Joseph's and the priests who served there.

The Spiritan Fathers have been missionaries in many countries around the world, often in areas of political unrest and civil war since they were formed over 100 years ago, but it is since Vatican II that their mission spread to over 50 nations worldwide.

Fr. Marsh will be making an appeal (as a retiring collection) on behalf of the Spiritan Order to support their missionary work.

I'm sure you will welcome him and support him with your usual generosity.

More information about their missionary work is on the notice board in the Church porch.
